

SwingCheck 0.6

Released October 6, 2026 · v0.6.0 to v0.6.14

Marking, reworked to explain itself, and swings you can rename.

● What's new

- Two parts to every step: first slide to match the example and press Frame looks right, then click the points one at a time. The frame stays put while you click, and Change frame goes back.
 - The example where you look: Rory McIlroy at the same moment, beside your frame on a wide screen, or as a small picture in the corner, placed clear of you.
 - The ball on the takeaway: the club often hides it at address, and it's in the same spot.
 - A color per point: the ball is a yellow ring, the club pink, and your hands a blue square.
 - Messages where you are: save errors show right under the frame.

● Fixes and tweaks

- v0.6.1: rename a swing with the pencil after its name. A shared PDF follows the new name.
- v0.6.2: on the example, the point to click next pulses.
- v0.6.3: Rory's example uses our latest, most accurate marks, with every checkpoint green.
- v0.6.4 to v0.6.6: Rory's takeaway example is on an earlier frame, with the clubhead clearly marked on the club, and a new example picture always replaces the old one.
- v0.6.7: on Rory's halfway back, the hands box sits on his hands.
- v0.6.8: a bigger, clearer frame slider, and "Drag the slider to match the example".
- v0.6.9: driver swings get their own example, Tiger Woods with a driver, and black bars around a video are cropped off.
- v0.6.10: key frames open large on the page instead of a new tab, a clearer "Your swings" button, and the slo-mo tip in plain words.
- v0.6.11: Open link beside Copy link, to see your shared PDF as others do.
- v0.6.12 to v0.6.14: an anonymous count of how long marking takes, to guide what to make easier next.
